Divided Interests.

Emerson said, the one prudence in life is concentration. Drop the war news a moment and concentrate your mind on this:

At Berry's Clothing Store you'll get more careful attention than at any store in Richmond, and courteous treatment whether you buy or only LOOK. If you buy you'll have the best goods for the price—if you want to change any purchase this firm will buy it back.

This week Berry displays all the new things for summer in Men and Boys' wear—

A heart disease finish! The first since the Atlantic League, and the crowd went wild for a few minutes.

It was the game between the Richmonds and the Imperials at Broad Street Park yesterday afternoon.

The Olivers and Swansboro had just finished a slow, uninteresting game, and the large crowd was ready to take up anything snappy.

The game was full of ginger, and it was a question all through as to the winner. The Imperials had it for two innings, and then the Richmonds got it.

The latter held the game until the seventh inning, when, by a series of lucky hits, the team from Barton Heights ran away with the game by a single run.

The routers from the northside shouted themselves hoarse, and they continued to feel good until the ninth inning.

Then Knightley's men braced up and put two runners over the plate. The Imperials could not catch up, and the score stood as follows:

Fortunately the County of Mecklenburg Has Plethoric Purse.

(Special to The Times-Dispatch.)
RICHMOND, VA., May 19.—The supervisors have completed the auditing of the bills in connection with the smallpox scourge in Mecklenburg last winter.

The claim of Dr. H. L. Burwell, the physician mainly in charge of the hospital, was satisfactorily compromised by paying the doctor one thousand dollars in full.

The aggregate of claims allowed for all persons for services, etc., in the scourge was about four thousand dollars.

Commonwealth's Attorney Goode informed this morning that Mecklenburg county had the money in hand to pay all the claims, and would have a little balance left to work on.
